CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

Dear Friends, Partners and Supporters,

The year 2025 reminded us that behind every humanitarian crisis is a human story a family searching for safety after devastating floods, a child going to bed hungry, a patient unable to afford medical care, or an injured animal left without help. These moments strengthened our resolve to stand beside those who needed compassion most.

None of this would have been possible without the generosity of our donors, the dedication of our volunteers, the commitment of our staff, and the trust of the communities we serve. Your support has transformed compassion into meaningful action and created lasting change in the lives of thousands of people.

As we look to the future, we remain committed to serving with integrity, transparency, and accountability. Together, we will continue to reach the most vulnerable, strengthen resilient communities, and ensure that no one is left behind.

With gratitude,

Pastor Mohsin Arif
Chairman

Moses Welfare Foundation

At Moses Welfare Foundation, we believe that true humanitarian action is measured not only by the number of people reached, but by the hope restored and the dignity protected. Throughout the year, we responded to emergencies with food assistance, provided free medical care to underserved communities, supported orphaned children with essential nourishment, rescued and treated injured roadside animals, and brought joy to vulnerable Christian families through our Christmas humanitarian programme.

As we look to the future, we remain committed to serving with integrity, transparency, and accountability. Together, we will continue to reach the most vulnerable, strengthen resilient communities, and ensure that no one is left behind.

Thank you for believing in our mission and for walking this journey with us. Together, we are bringing hope where it is needed most.

Executive Summary

The year 2025 was a year of resilience, compassion and meaningful action for Moses Welfare Foundation (MWF). As communities across Pakistan continued to face the effects of climate-related disasters, economic hardship, food insecurity and limited access to essential healthcare, our organisation remained committed to serving those most in need with dignity, integrity and hope.

Throughout the year, MWF delivered humanitarian assistance to vulnerable families through a range of community-based programmes designed to address both immediate needs and long-term well-being. Our emergency flood response provided life-saving food assistance to affected households, while our free medical camps ensured that underserved communities received access to essential healthcare services and medicines. We also continued to support orphaned children with nutritious food and basic necessities, helping to protect their health and well-being.

Recognising that compassion extends to all living beings, MWF strengthened its animal welfare initiatives by rescuing injured roadside animals, providing free veterinary treatment and promoting humane care through community awareness. During the Christmas season, we stood alongside vulnerable Christian families by distributing food packages, warm winter clothing and new festive clothes for children, ensuring that they could celebrate with dignity and joy.

Every programme implemented during 2025 was guided by our commitment to accountability, transparency and community participation. Working closely with volunteers, healthcare professionals, local leaders and generous donors, we were able to reach communities facing some of the most difficult circumstances and provide timely, compassionate support.

This Annual Report reflects more than a year of activities it tells the story of lives restored, communities strengthened and hope renewed. It also reaffirms our commitment to responsible stewardship of donor resources, continuous organisational learning and sustainable humanitarian action.

As we look ahead, Moses Welfare Foundation remains dedicated to expanding its impact, strengthening partnerships and delivering innovative, community-led programmes that create lasting change. Together with our supporters, we will continue working toward a future where every family can live with dignity, every child has the opportunity to thrive, and every community is empowered to build a more resilient tomorrow.

Pakistan Humanitarian

Context 2025

Pakistan continued to face a multifaceted humanitarian crisis throughout 2025, driven by the combined impacts of climate change, recurring natural disasters, economic instability, food insecurity, public health challenges, and large-scale population displacement. These overlapping crises have disproportionately affected vulnerable populations, including women, children, older persons, persons with disabilities, religious minorities, and low-income households, increasing humanitarian needs across the country.

Climate-Induced Emergencies

Pakistan remains among the countries most vulnerable to climate change. During 2025, severe monsoon rains, flash floods, landslides, heatwaves, and localized droughts caused widespread destruction across Punjab, Sindh, Balochistan, Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, and Gilgit-Baltistan. These disasters damaged homes, schools, health facilities, water infrastructure, roads, and agricultural land, disrupting livelihoods and essential services. Communities already recovering from previous disasters continued to experience repeated climate shocks, further deepening poverty and vulnerability.

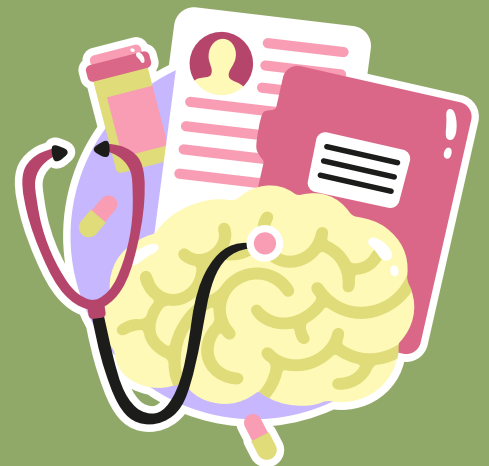

Food Security and Livelihoods

Persistent inflation, high food prices, reduced agricultural productivity, and limited employment opportunities significantly weakened household resilience. Smallholder farmers, landless laborers, daily wage earners, and rural families experienced declining incomes and reduced access to nutritious food. Food insecurity remained a critical concern, particularly in climate-affected districts, where families increasingly relied on humanitarian assistance to meet their basic needs.

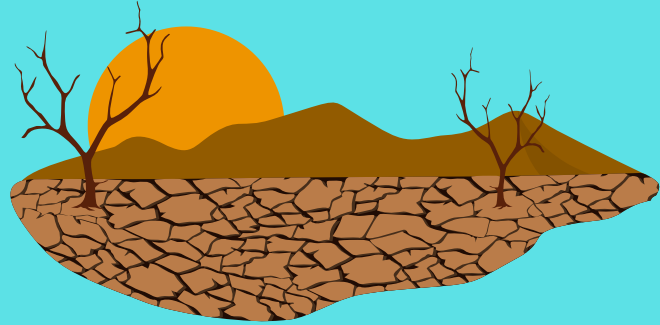

Health and Nutrition

Access to quality healthcare remained constrained in many underserved communities due to damaged infrastructure, limited health resources, and economic barriers. Maternal and child health indicators continued to require urgent attention, while malnutrition among children under five and pregnant and lactating women remained a serious public health challenge. Humanitarian actors prioritized emergency health services, immunization, nutrition interventions, disease surveillance, and access to essential medicines to reduce preventable illness and mortality.

Water, Sanitation and Hygiene (WASH)

Humanitarian actors prioritized emergency health services, immunization, nutrition interventions, disease surveillance, and access to essential medicines to reduce preventable illness and mortality.

Protection and Displacement

Population displacement remained a significant humanitarian concern throughout 2025. Thousands of families were displaced by floods, localized conflict, and environmental disasters, while Pakistan also continued to host large numbers of Afghan refugees and experienced ongoing refugee returns. Displaced populations faced heightened protection risks, including inadequate shelter, limited access to basic services, gender-based violence, child protection concerns, and barriers to education and healthcare.

Education in Emergencies

Natural disasters and economic hardship continued to disrupt children's education. Damage to schools, displacement, poverty, child labour, and early marriage increased the risk of school dropout, particularly among girls. Restoring safe learning environments and ensuring continued access to quality education remained critical to protecting children's future opportunities and reducing long-term vulnerability.

Humanitarian Response

Priorities

The Government of Pakistan, together with United Nations agencies, international organizations, national NGOs, and community-based organizations, continued to coordinate humanitarian response efforts focused on:

- Emergency food assistance and nutrition support.
- Primary healthcare and maternal and child health services.
- Clean water, sanitation, and hygiene (WASH) interventions.
- Emergency shelter and non-food item distribution.
- Protection services for women, children, and other vulnerable groups.
- Education in emergencies.
- Livelihood recovery and economic resilience.
- Disaster risk reduction, preparedness, and climate adaptation.

Conclusion

The humanitarian situation in Pakistan during 2025 highlights the urgent need for sustained humanitarian assistance alongside long-term resilience-building initiatives. Strengthening community capacity, improving access to essential services, enhancing climate resilience, and protecting the rights and dignity of vulnerable populations remain critical to addressing the country's evolving humanitarian challenges. Continued collaboration between government institutions, humanitarian agencies, donors, and local civil society organizations is essential to ensure effective, inclusive, and sustainable humanitarian action across Pakistan.

Our Theory of Change

At Moses Welfare Foundation, we believe that lasting social change occurs when vulnerable communities are empowered with equitable access to education, healthcare, sustainable livelihoods, protection services, clean water, and humanitarian assistance. Poverty, inequality, and social exclusion are interconnected challenges that require integrated, community-driven solutions rather than isolated interventions.

At Moses Welfare Foundation, we believe that lasting social change occurs when vulnerable communities are empowered with equitable access to education, healthcare, sustainable livelihoods, protection services, clean water, and humanitarian assistance. Poverty, inequality, and social exclusion are interconnected challenges that require integrated, community-driven solutions rather than isolated interventions.

We achieve this by partnering with local communities, government institutions, faith-based organizations, civil society organizations, and international development partners to design and implement evidence-based, inclusive, and sustainable programmes that address both immediate humanitarian needs and the underlying causes of vulnerability.

Our integrated approach focuses on five interconnected pathways for change:

Improving Human Well-being:

Expanding access to quality education, healthcare, nutrition, clean water, sanitation, and child protection enables vulnerable individuals to live healthier, safer, and more dignified lives.

Strengthening Economic Resilience:

Providing vocational training, livelihood support, financial inclusion, and income-generating opportunities empowers families, particularly women and youth to achieve economic independence and reduce long-term dependence on humanitarian assistance.

Building Community Resilience:

Investing in disaster risk reduction, climate adaptation, emergency preparedness, and community-led resilience initiatives strengthens local capacity to anticipate, withstand, and recover from humanitarian crises and climate-related disasters.

Promoting Social Inclusion and Protection:

Protecting the rights of children, women, persons with disabilities, religious minorities, and other marginalized groups fosters inclusive communities where everyone has equal opportunities to participate, thrive, and live free from discrimination and exploitation.

Strengthening Local Institutions and Partnerships

Building the capacity of community organizations, local leadership, volunteers, and public institutions enhances accountability, sustainability, and locally led development while fostering effective collaboration with national and international partners.

Our work is guided by the principles of humanity, impartiality, neutrality, accountability, transparency, participation, safeguarding, gender equality, and respect for human dignity. We continuously monitor, evaluate, and adapt our programmes to ensure they are evidence-based, cost-effective, and responsive to the evolving needs of the communities we serve.

Our Long-Term Impact

Through collaborative partnerships and sustainable development programming, Moses Welfare Foundation envisions resilient communities where every child is educated, every family has access to essential services and sustainable livelihood opportunities, every individual lives with dignity and equal opportunity, and vulnerable populations are empowered to shape a safer, healthier, and more prosperous future.

2025 Programme Highlights

In 2025, Moses Welfare Foundation continued its commitment to serving vulnerable communities across Pakistan through humanitarian assistance, healthcare, animal welfare, child protection, and organisational strengthening. Despite ongoing humanitarian and economic challenges, our dedicated staff and volunteers worked tirelessly to deliver timely, compassionate, and impactful interventions that improved the lives of thousands of beneficiaries.

Flood Emergency Response

Climate-induced flooding continued to affect vulnerable communities across Pakistan during 2025, leaving many families without shelter, food, clean water, and essential household items. In response, Moses Welfare Foundation mobilised its emergency response team to provide timely humanitarian assistance to flood-affected communities, prioritising households with children, older persons, persons with disabilities, widows, and families living below the poverty line.

Our emergency response focused on addressing immediate humanitarian needs while supporting the safety, dignity, and well-being of affected populations. Working in close coordination with local communities, volunteers, and relevant authorities, we conducted rapid needs assessments to identify the most vulnerable households and ensure that assistance reached those most in need.

Emergency relief assistance included the distribution of food packages, safe drinking water, hygiene kits, clothing, blankets, bedding, and other essential non-food items. Where required, our team also provided emergency shelter materials and basic household supplies to help families begin the recovery process.

Beyond immediate relief, our response emphasised community resilience by promoting hygiene awareness, supporting disease prevention measures, and encouraging community participation in recovery efforts. Through these interventions, Moses Welfare Foundation helped reduce the humanitarian impact of flooding and contributed to protecting the health, dignity, and resilience of affected families.

We remain committed to strengthening disaster preparedness, expanding emergency response capacity, and working with partners to ensure that vulnerable communities are better equipped to withstand future climate-related disasters.

Free Medical Camps

Access to affordable and quality healthcare remains a significant challenge for many underserved communities in Pakistan, particularly in rural areas where poverty, limited medical infrastructure, and financial constraints prevent families from receiving timely treatment. In response to these challenges, Moses Welfare Foundation organised a series of free medical camps throughout 2025 to improve access to essential healthcare services for vulnerable populations.

The medical camps were conducted in collaboration with qualified doctors, nurses, pharmacists, and dedicated volunteers who provided comprehensive primary healthcare services to individuals who otherwise had limited or no access to medical care. These outreach initiatives served children, women, older persons, persons with disabilities, and low-income families, ensuring that healthcare reached those most in need.

Services provided during the camps included general medical consultations, basic health screenings, blood pressure and blood glucose testing, maternal and child health consultations, health education, and the free distribution of prescribed medicines. Patients requiring specialised treatment or further investigation were referred to appropriate healthcare facilities for continued care.

In addition to clinical services, the medical camps promoted preventive healthcare through awareness sessions on personal hygiene, nutrition, communicable disease prevention, maternal and child health, and healthy lifestyle practices. These educational activities empowered community members with the knowledge needed to prevent common illnesses and improve their overall well-being.

By delivering accessible, free, and community-based healthcare services, Moses Welfare Foundation helped reduce health inequalities, improve early detection of medical conditions, and enhance the health and dignity of vulnerable individuals and families. We remain committed to expanding our healthcare outreach programmes and strengthening partnerships that improve equitable access to quality healthcare across Pakistan.

Animal Rescue & Free Veterinary Clinics

Animal welfare is an integral part of Moses Welfare Foundation's commitment to creating healthier, more compassionate, and sustainable communities. Throughout 2025, we expanded our animal welfare programme by rescuing injured, abandoned, neglected, and vulnerable animals while providing free veterinary services to support both animal health and the livelihoods of local communities.

Our dedicated veterinary outreach team, in collaboration with qualified veterinarians and trained volunteers, conducted free veterinary clinics in underserved areas where access to professional animal healthcare is often limited. The programme primarily served low-income livestock owners, small-scale farmers, and community members caring for stray and rescued animals.

The veterinary clinics provided a range of essential services, including general health examinations, diagnosis and treatment of common illnesses, wound care, vaccinations, deworming, parasite control, nutritional guidance, and emergency medical assistance. Livestock owners also received practical training on responsible animal husbandry, disease prevention, proper nutrition, and animal welfare practices to improve the long-term health and productivity of their animals.

In addition to veterinary services, our animal rescue team responded to reports of injured, abandoned, abused, and distressed animals. Rescued animals received immediate medical care, rehabilitation, and ongoing support until they were healthy and safe. Through these interventions, the Foundation helped alleviate animal suffering while promoting compassion and responsible animal care within local communities.

Our Animal Rescue and Free Veterinary Clinics programme contributes not only to improved animal welfare but also to public health, environmental sustainability, and the economic resilience of vulnerable households that depend on healthy livestock for their livelihoods. Moses Welfare Foundation remains committed to expanding these services through partnerships, community engagement, and continued investment in animal welfare initiatives across Pakistan.

Feeding Roadside Animals

Throughout 2025, Moses Welfare Foundation continued its Feeding Roadside Animals initiative to support stray and abandoned animals facing hunger, dehydration, and harsh environmental conditions. Guided by the principles of compassion, kindness, and responsible community care, the programme aimed to improve the welfare of vulnerable animals while promoting greater public awareness of animal protection and humane treatment.

Our volunteers regularly distributed nutritious food and clean drinking water to stray dogs, cats, birds, and other roadside animals in urban and rural communities, particularly during periods of extreme heat, heavy rainfall, and cold weather when access to food and water becomes increasingly limited. Feeding points were established in areas with large stray animal populations to ensure consistent and safe access to nourishment.

The initiative also complemented our broader animal welfare programme by identifying injured, sick, or malnourished animals requiring veterinary attention. Animals in need of urgent medical care were referred to our Animal Rescue and Free Veterinary Clinics programme, where they received appropriate treatment and rehabilitation.

ANIMAL RESCUE FOUNDATION

In addition to direct assistance, the programme encouraged community participation by raising awareness about responsible animal care, the importance of providing clean water during extreme weather, and the humane treatment of stray animals. Through volunteer engagement and public education, Moses Welfare Foundation fostered a culture of empathy and shared responsibility toward animals living in our communities.

The Feeding Roadside Animals programme reflects our belief that compassion extends to all living beings. By addressing the immediate needs of vulnerable animals and promoting responsible community involvement, we contribute to healthier communities, improved animal welfare, and a more compassionate society.

Orphan Support Programme

The Orphan Support Programme is one of the flagship initiatives of Moses Welfare Foundation, dedicated to protecting, nurturing, and empowering orphaned and vulnerable children to reach their full potential. We believe that every child deserves a safe environment, quality education, access to healthcare, proper nutrition, and the opportunity to grow with dignity, hope, and equal opportunities regardless of their circumstances.

Throughout 2025, the Foundation continued to provide holistic support to orphaned children and other highly vulnerable children from low-income families. Our programme addressed their immediate needs while investing in their long-term development through education, health, nutrition, psychosocial support, and child protection services.

Children enrolled in the programme received educational assistance, including school enrolment support, learning materials, school uniforms, stationery, and tuition assistance where required. To promote their overall well-being, the Foundation also provided nutritious food, seasonal clothing, healthcare support, and referrals for specialised medical care when necessary.

Recognising that children require more than material assistance, the programme also focused on emotional well-being and personal development. Recreational activities, life skills sessions, mentoring, and psychosocial support created safe spaces where children could build confidence, develop social skills, and experience a sense of belonging within a caring community.

The programme is implemented in accordance with strong child safeguarding principles to ensure that every child is protected from abuse, neglect, exploitation, and discrimination. We work closely with caregivers, schools, local communities, and relevant stakeholders to create a supportive environment that promotes children's rights, education, protection, and healthy development.

Through the Orphan Support Programme, Moses Welfare Foundation continues to invest in the future of vulnerable children by providing the care, opportunities, and protection they need to become healthy, educated, confident, and self-reliant members of society. Our long-term vision is to break the cycle of poverty and vulnerability by empowering every child to achieve a brighter and more hopeful future.

Christmas Humanitarian Assistance

Christmas is a season of hope, compassion, and solidarity. In 2025, Moses Welfare Foundation continued its annual Christmas Humanitarian Assistance Programme to support vulnerable Christian families and other disadvantaged households experiencing poverty, food insecurity, and social exclusion across Pakistan. The programme aimed to ensure that families could celebrate the Christmas season with dignity while meeting their essential needs.

Priority was given to widows, orphaned children, older persons, persons with disabilities, daily wage earners, and families living in underserved and marginalized communities. Through community-based assessments, the Foundation identified households requiring urgent support and ensured that assistance reached those most in need in a transparent and equitable manner.

The Foundation distributed Christmas food packages containing essential household items, along with warm clothing, blankets, children's gifts, and other seasonal necessities. These distributions helped alleviate financial hardship during the festive period and provided practical support to families struggling to meet their basic needs.

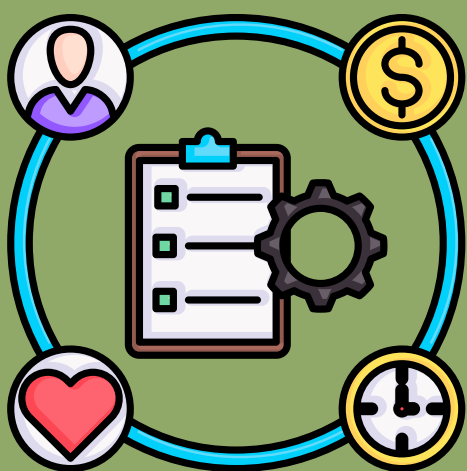

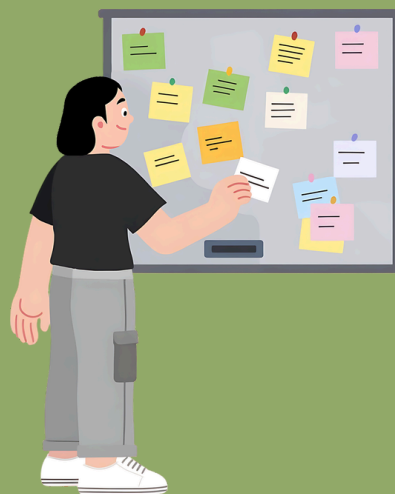

In addition to material assistance, Moses Welfare Foundation organised community Christmas celebrations that brought together children, families, volunteers, and local leaders in a spirit of unity and hope. These events included recreational activities for children, the distribution of gifts, messages of peace and encouragement, and opportunities for communities to celebrate together in a safe and welcoming environment.

The Christmas Humanitarian Assistance Programme reflects the Foundation's commitment to serving vulnerable communities with compassion, respect, and dignity. By combining humanitarian support with community engagement, the programme not only addressed immediate needs but also strengthened social cohesion, promoted inclusion, and restored hope among families facing difficult circumstances.

Moses Welfare Foundation remains committed to continuing this annual initiative and expanding its reach through partnerships and community support, ensuring that more vulnerable families can experience the joy, dignity, and hope that the Christmas season represents.

Organisational Capacity

Throughout 2025, Moses Welfare Foundation made significant investments in strengthening its organisational capacity to enhance governance, accountability, transparency, and programme effectiveness. Recognising that strong institutions are essential for delivering sustainable humanitarian and development outcomes, the Foundation continued to improve its internal systems, operational procedures, and staff capabilities in line with international standards and best practices.

A key priority during the year was the development and implementation of comprehensive organisational policies covering governance, finance, procurement, safeguarding, human resources, risk management, data protection, anti-fraud, conflict of interest, anti-money laundering (AML/CFT), environmental sustainability, gender equality and inclusion, monitoring, evaluation, accountability and learning (MEAL), and feedback and complaints handling. These policies have strengthened organisational accountability and reinforced our commitment to ethical, transparent, and responsible management.

The Foundation also invested in building the capacity of its Board of Directors, staff members, and volunteers through training, mentoring, and professional development. Capacity-building initiatives focused on project management, safeguarding, financial accountability, humanitarian principles, monitoring and evaluation, proposal development, donor compliance, and organisational leadership, enabling our team to deliver high-quality programmes and respond effectively to emerging humanitarian needs.

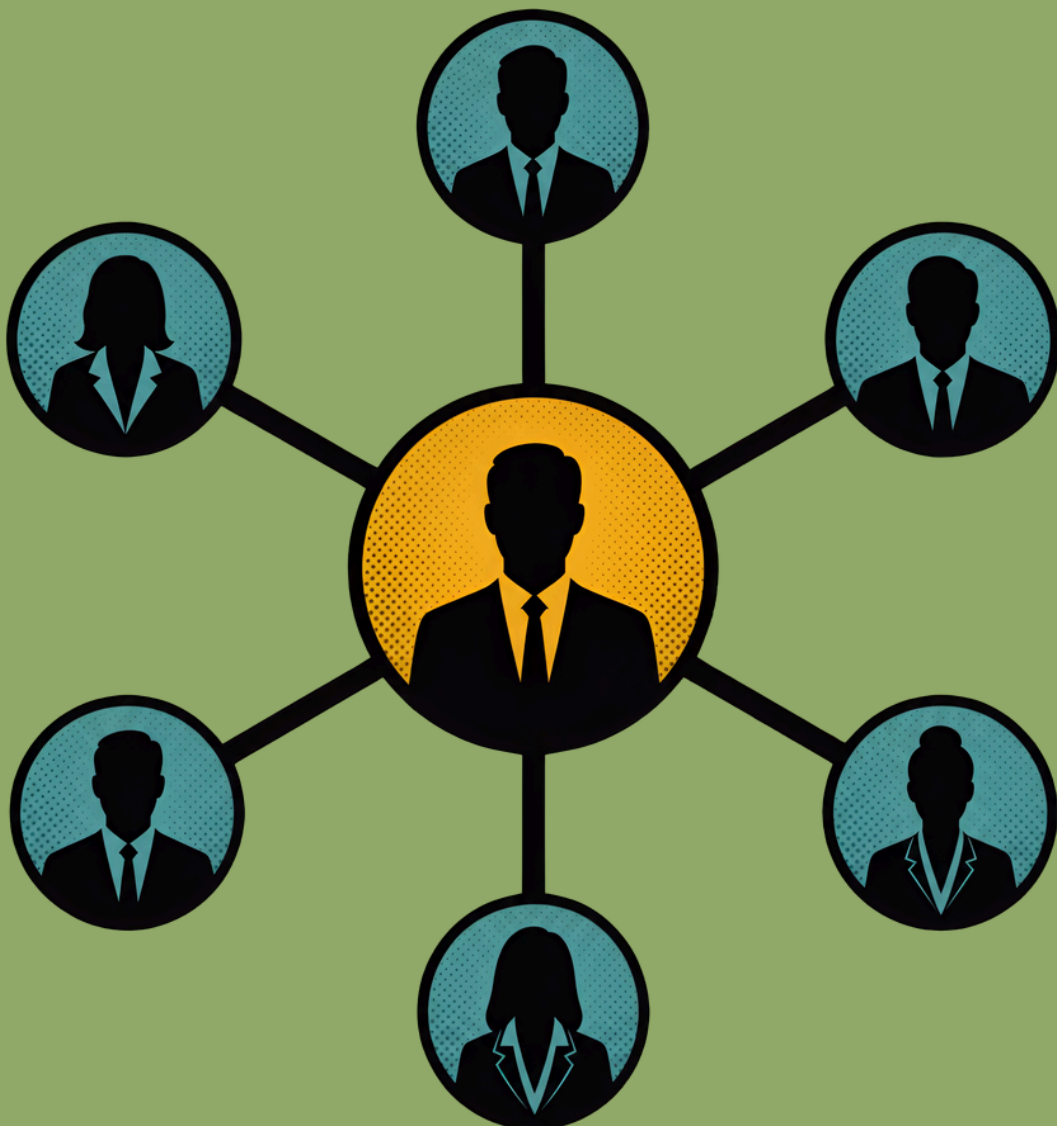

To improve operational efficiency, Moses Welfare Foundation enhanced its financial management systems, programme monitoring processes, documentation practices, and internal reporting mechanisms. Strengthening these systems has improved decision-making, accountability, risk management, and the effective use of resources while ensuring compliance with donor requirements and national regulations.

During 2025, the Foundation also expanded its engagement with national and international partners, donors, faith-based organisations, civil society organisations, and humanitarian networks. These strategic partnerships created new opportunities for collaboration, resource mobilisation, organisational learning, and collective action to address the complex challenges facing vulnerable communities across Pakistan.

Our continued investment in organisational development reflects our long-term commitment to becoming a trusted, accountable, and resilient humanitarian organisation. By strengthening our institutional capacity, Moses Welfare Foundation is better positioned to deliver impactful programmes, build sustainable partnerships, and create lasting positive change for the communities we serve.

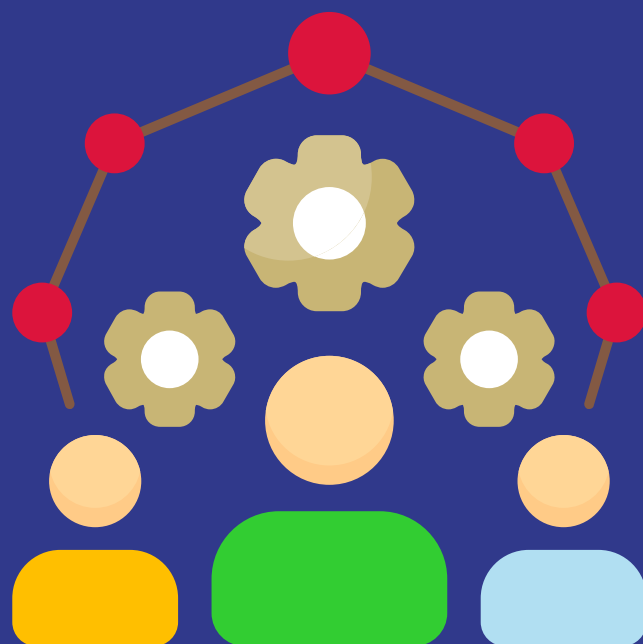

Governance

At Moses Welfare Foundation, effective governance is fundamental to achieving our mission and maintaining the trust of the communities we serve, our donors, partners, and other stakeholders. Our governance framework is built on the principles of integrity, accountability, transparency, participation, stewardship, and compliance, ensuring that all organisational decisions are made ethically, responsibly, and in the best interests of our beneficiaries.

The Foundation is governed by an independent Board of Directors, which provides strategic leadership, policy oversight, and fiduciary responsibility. The Board is accountable for safeguarding the organisation's vision, mission, and values, while ensuring compliance with applicable laws, regulatory requirements, donor obligations, and internationally recognised standards of nonprofit governance. It approves the organisation's strategic plan, annual budget, key policies, major programme initiatives, and institutional priorities, while regularly monitoring organisational performance and risk.

The Executive Management Team, under the oversight of the Board, is responsible for the effective implementation of strategic objectives, operational management, financial stewardship, programme delivery, human resource management, and organisational performance. Clear separation between governance and executive management promotes accountability, strengthens decision-making, and ensures effective oversight across all levels of the organisation.

During 2025, Moses Welfare Foundation further strengthened its governance systems through the development and implementation of comprehensive organisational policies and procedures. These include policies on financial management, procurement and logistics, safeguarding, child protection, human resources, anti-fraud and anti-corruption, anti-money laundering and counter-terrorist financing (AML/CFT), conflict of interest, data protection, risk management, environmental sustainability, gender equality and inclusion, Monitoring, Evaluation, Accountability and Learning (MEAL), and feedback and complaints handling. Together, these policies reinforce a culture of ethical conduct, institutional accountability, and continuous improvement.

Transparency and accountability remain central to our governance approach. The Foundation maintains robust financial controls, internal reporting systems, and programme monitoring mechanisms to ensure that resources are managed efficiently and used solely for their intended charitable purposes. Regular Board meetings, management reviews, financial reporting, and programme evaluations support informed decision-making and strengthen organisational performance.

We are committed to meaningful stakeholder engagement and recognise that accountability extends beyond compliance. Beneficiaries, community representatives, staff, volunteers, donors, and partners are encouraged to participate through consultations, feedback mechanisms, and complaints procedures that inform programme design, improve service delivery, and strengthen organisational learning.

As Moses Welfare Foundation continues to grow, we remain dedicated to upholding the highest standards of governance and institutional excellence. By fostering ethical leadership, sound financial stewardship, effective oversight, and transparent decision-making, we ensure that the Foundation remains a trusted and resilient organisation capable of delivering sustainable humanitarian and development impact for the communities we serve.

Safeguarding

Moses Welfare Foundation is committed to creating a safe, respectful, and inclusive environment where the rights, dignity, and well-being of every individual are protected. We maintain a zero-tolerance approach to all forms of abuse, exploitation, neglect, harassment, discrimination, and violence. Safeguarding is a core organisational priority and is integrated into every aspect of our governance, programmes, partnerships, and operations.

Our safeguarding framework is designed to protect children, vulnerable adults, beneficiaries, staff, volunteers, consultants, Board members, contractors, and partners from any form of harm arising from our activities. We recognise our duty of care and are committed to ensuring that everyone who comes into contact with the Foundation is treated with respect, fairness, and dignity, regardless of age, gender, disability, ethnicity, religion, or socio-economic background.

The Foundation has adopted comprehensive safeguarding policies and procedures that align with international humanitarian and development standards. These include Child Safeguarding, Protection from Sexual Exploitation, Abuse and Harassment (PSEAH), Code of Conduct, Whistleblowing, and Feedback and Complaints Handling policies. Together, these policies establish clear behavioural expectations, reporting obligations, and accountability mechanisms for all personnel and partners.

Safeguarding responsibilities are embedded throughout the organisation. All employees, volunteers, Board members, and representatives are required to comply with our safeguarding standards, sign the Code of Conduct, and participate in safeguarding awareness and training. Safeguarding considerations are integrated into recruitment, staff induction, programme planning, risk assessments, partnership agreements, and monitoring processes to minimise risks and strengthen organisational accountability.

The Foundation provides safe, confidential, and accessible mechanisms for reporting safeguarding concerns. Reports are handled promptly, sensitively, and impartially, with appropriate measures taken to protect survivors, whistleblowers, and witnesses from retaliation. Allegations are investigated in accordance with established procedures, and where appropriate, referred to the relevant authorities while maintaining confidentiality and respect for the rights of all parties involved.

We are committed to fostering a culture in which safeguarding is everyone's responsibility. Through continuous learning, policy review, staff capacity building, and community engagement, Moses Welfare Foundation strives to strengthen safeguarding practices and ensure that our programmes are delivered in a manner that protects the dignity, safety, and rights of all individuals.

By placing safeguarding at the centre of our work, we reinforce our commitment to ethical humanitarian action, accountability, and the creation of safe environments where vulnerable people can access support with confidence, trust, and dignity.

Monitoring, Evaluation, Accountability and Learning (MEAL) Framework

Moses Welfare Foundation recognises that effective Monitoring, Evaluation, Accountability and Learning (MEAL) is fundamental to delivering high-quality, evidence-based, and accountable humanitarian and development programmes. Our MEAL Framework enables us to measure progress, assess impact, strengthen organisational learning, and ensure that our interventions remain relevant, effective, efficient, inclusive, and responsive to the needs of the communities we serve.

Our approach to MEAL is guided by internationally recognised humanitarian principles and best practices, promoting transparency, continuous improvement, and accountability to beneficiaries, donors, partners, and other stakeholders. By integrating MEAL throughout the programme cycle from project design and implementation to evaluation and reporting—we ensure that decisions are informed by reliable data, community feedback, and measurable results.

Monitoring

Programme monitoring is conducted continuously to track progress against approved work plans, performance indicators, budgets, and expected outputs. Field teams collect both quantitative and qualitative data through site visits, beneficiary interviews, observation, attendance records, surveys, and routine reporting. Regular monitoring enables us to identify implementation challenges, measure programme performance, ensure quality standards, and take timely corrective action where necessary.

Evaluation

Moses Welfare Foundation conducts periodic evaluations to assess the relevance, effectiveness, efficiency, impact, and sustainability of its programmes. Depending on the scope of each project, evaluations may include baseline assessments, mid-term reviews, end-line evaluations, and post-project impact assessments. Findings are used to inform strategic planning, improve programme quality, strengthen accountability, and support evidence-based decision-making.

Accountability

Accountability to affected communities is a core organisational commitment. We promote meaningful participation by engaging beneficiaries throughout programme planning, implementation, monitoring, and evaluation. Accessible feedback and complaints mechanisms enable community members to share suggestions, concerns, complaints, and compliments in a safe, confidential, and respectful manner. All feedback is reviewed systematically and contributes to programme improvement and organisational accountability.

Learning

Learning is embedded within our organisational culture. We regularly analyse programme data, evaluation findings, beneficiary feedback, and lessons learned to identify best practices and areas for improvement. Internal reflection sessions, staff learning workshops, and knowledge-sharing initiatives support continuous organisational development and strengthen future programme design and implementation.

Data Quality and Information Management

The Foundation is committed to maintaining high standards of data quality, accuracy, confidentiality, and integrity. Standardised data collection tools, verification procedures, secure record management, and ethical data protection practices ensure that programme information is reliable and managed responsibly in accordance with applicable legal requirements and organisational policies.

Commitment to Continuous Improvement

Through our MEAL Framework, Moses Welfare Foundation strengthens evidence-based programming, enhances transparency, and demonstrates accountability for the resources entrusted to us. By systematically measuring results, listening to communities, and applying lessons learned, we continuously improve the quality, effectiveness, and sustainability of our humanitarian and development programmes, ensuring that they create meaningful and lasting impact for vulnerable communities across Pakistan.

Financial Stewardship

Moses Welfare Foundation is committed to the highest standards of financial stewardship, ensuring that every donation, grant, and contribution is managed responsibly, transparently, and in accordance with applicable laws, donor requirements, and internationally recognised nonprofit financial management standards. We recognise that effective stewardship of financial resources is essential to maintaining the confidence of our beneficiaries, donors, partners, regulators, and the wider public.

Our financial management framework is built on the principles of accountability, transparency, integrity, value for money, and responsible resource management. Robust financial systems, internal controls, and governance mechanisms are in place to safeguard organisational assets, prevent fraud and misuse of funds, and ensure that resources are utilised efficiently to maximise programme impact.

The Foundation operates under comprehensive financial policies and procedures that govern budgeting, accounting, procurement, expenditure approval, cash and bank management, asset management, grant administration, financial reporting, and record retention. These policies establish clear roles, responsibilities, and approval processes to ensure appropriate segregation of duties and strong financial oversight throughout the organisation.

Annual budgets are developed through a structured planning process that aligns financial resources with the Foundation's strategic priorities and programme objectives. Financial performance is monitored regularly by senior management and the Board of Directors to ensure expenditures remain within approved budgets, identify financial risks, and support timely and informed decision-making.

To strengthen accountability, Moses Welfare Foundation maintains accurate financial records and prepares regular financial reports for management, the Board, donors, and relevant regulatory authorities. Independent external audits are conducted annually by qualified auditors, and audit findings are reviewed to strengthen internal controls and promote continuous organisational improvement.

The Foundation maintains a zero-tolerance approach to fraud, corruption, bribery, money laundering, terrorist financing, and financial misconduct. All staff, Board members, volunteers, consultants, and partners are expected to comply with our Anti-Fraud and Anti-Corruption Policy, Conflict of Interest Policy, Anti-Money Laundering and Counter-Terrorist Financing (AML/CFT) Policy, Procurement and Logistics Policy, and other financial governance procedures. Suspected financial irregularities can be reported through confidential reporting mechanisms and are investigated promptly and impartially.

We are committed to ensuring that donor funds are used solely for their intended charitable purposes and that every financial decision reflects our responsibility to maximise value, minimise waste, and deliver measurable benefits to the communities we serve.

Through sound financial stewardship, strong governance, and a culture of accountability, Moses Welfare Foundation continues to build the trust of donors and partners while ensuring the long-term sustainability, credibility, and effectiveness of our humanitarian and development programmes.

Partnerships

At Moses Welfare Foundation, we believe that sustainable humanitarian and development impact is achieved through strong, strategic, and collaborative partnerships. No single organisation can address the complex challenges of poverty, inequality, humanitarian crises, and climate change alone. By working together with diverse stakeholders, we leverage complementary expertise, resources, and local knowledge to deliver more effective, inclusive, and sustainable solutions for vulnerable communities across Pakistan.

Our partnership approach is founded on the principles of mutual respect, transparency, accountability, shared learning, local ownership, and collective impact. We are committed to building long-term relationships based on trust and a shared commitment to improving the lives of those most in need.

Throughout our programmes, Moses Welfare Foundation collaborates with a broad range of partners, including:

- Government ministries and local authorities.
- National and international non-governmental organisations (NGOs).
- United Nations agencies and humanitarian coordination mechanisms.
- Faith-based organisations and religious institutions.
- Corporate partners and private sector organisations.
- Philanthropic foundations and institutional donors.
- Academic and research institutions.
- Community-based organisations, local leaders, and volunteer networks.

These partnerships strengthen programme quality, expand our operational reach, enhance technical capacity, improve resource mobilisation, and promote coordinated humanitarian and development responses. Through collaboration, we can deliver integrated interventions across education, healthcare, emergency response, livelihoods, child protection, water, sanitation, and hygiene (WASH), and community development.

Moses Welfare Foundation is committed to maintaining the highest standards of partnership management. We conduct appropriate due diligence, establish clear partnership agreements, define roles and responsibilities, and promote open communication and shared accountability throughout the project lifecycle. We also encourage regular dialogue, joint planning, monitoring, and knowledge sharing to ensure that partnerships remain effective, transparent, and aligned with shared objectives.

As a locally led organisation, we place particular emphasis on empowering communities and strengthening local capacity. We believe that sustainable development is achieved when communities actively participate in identifying needs, designing solutions, implementing programmes, and evaluating results. Our partnerships therefore prioritise community ownership, inclusion, and long-term resilience.

Looking ahead, Moses Welfare Foundation remains committed to expanding strategic partnerships with national and international organisations that share our vision of a more equitable, resilient, and compassionate society. Together, we will keep strengthening our ability to deliver lasting humanitarian and development impact for vulnerable communities across Pakistan.

Our integrated programming recognises that sustainable development requires coordinated action across multiple sectors. By addressing the interconnected challenges of poverty, education, health, food security, livelihoods, climate resilience, and social inclusion, we contribute to long-term, measurable improvements in the lives of the communities we serve.

Our Commitment

Moses Welfare Foundation is committed to ensuring that every programme contributes not only to addressing immediate humanitarian needs but also to creating long-term, sustainable change. By aligning our work with the Sustainable Development Goals, we strengthen our contribution to national development priorities and the global commitment to build a more just, inclusive, resilient, and sustainable future where no one is left behind.

Stories of Change

Behind every programme we implement is a story of courage, resilience, and hope. At Moses Welfare Foundation, we measure our success not only by the number of people reached, but by the lasting changes experienced by individuals, families, and communities. Each intervention represents an opportunity to restore dignity, strengthen resilience, and create pathways towards a better future.

The following stories illustrate how compassionate support, community participation, and strategic partnerships have transformed lives across our programme areas during 2025.

Restoring Hope After the Floods

When devastating floods affected vulnerable communities, hundreds of families lost their homes, livelihoods, and essential belongings. Many were left without food, clean water, or safe shelter.

Moses Welfare Foundation responded rapidly by delivering emergency food assistance, drinking water, hygiene kits, blankets, clothing, and other essential relief items. Beyond meeting immediate needs, our team worked closely with community members to identify the most vulnerable households and ensure that assistance was delivered fairly and with dignity.

For many families, this timely support provided more than humanitarian relief; it restored hope during one of the most difficult periods of their lives and enabled them to begin rebuilding their future.

Healthcare That Reached the Forgotten

In many rural communities, access to affordable healthcare remains limited due to poverty and the distance from medical facilities. Through our Free Medical Camps, vulnerable families were able to receive professional medical consultations, free medicines, health screenings, and preventive health education without financial burden.

For elderly patients, mothers, children, and individuals living with chronic illnesses, these medical camps represented their first opportunity in months to receive qualified healthcare. Early diagnosis and timely treatment helped prevent complications and improved overall community health and well-being.

A Brighter Future for Orphaned Children

Children who have lost one or both parents often face significant barriers to education, healthcare, nutrition, and emotional well-being. Through the Orphan Support Programme, Moses Welfare Foundation provided holistic care that enabled vulnerable children to continue their education, access healthcare, receive nutritious food, and participate in recreational and life-skills activities.

By creating a safe and nurturing environment, the programme restored confidence, encouraged learning, and gave children renewed hope for a brighter future. Their progress demonstrates the life-changing impact of sustained investment in child protection and development.

Compassion Beyond Humanity

Our commitment to compassion extends beyond people to include the welfare of animals. During 2025, our Animal Rescue, Free Veterinary Clinics, and Feeding Roadside Animals programmes rescued injured animals, treated sick livestock and stray animals, and provided food and clean water to hundreds of roadside animals during periods of extreme weather.

Every programme implemented by Moses Welfare Foundation contributes to a larger vision of resilient, self-reliant, and inclusive communities. Through humanitarian assistance, healthcare, education, child protection, organisational strengthening, and strategic partnerships, we continue to empower individuals and communities to overcome challenges and build sustainable futures.

These stories remind us that meaningful change begins with compassion, grows through partnership, and endures through community resilience. They inspire us to continue serving those most in need with integrity, accountability, and hope.

Evidence, community feedback, and lessons learned will inform programme design and organisational decision-making.

9. Promote Inclusion, Equality, and Human Dignity
